

What does SEND mean and what is the 'School offer'?

SEND stands for Special Educational Needs and Disability

All children are individuals and their abilities in each area of the curriculum can vary across a wide spectrum.

Class teachers are used to providing lessons and activities which ensure good progress for pupils whatever their level of ability.

However, there are situations where a child's needs are such that it is difficult for a class teacher to provide appropriately for them without additional and/or specialist support. This is usually when a child is described as having 'Special needs'

All Schools have a duty to be accessible and inclusive for the children within their community. It is our job to support parents in providing the best possible education for children. For the vast majority of children that will be through attending their local mainstream school. However, for a small number of children their needs may be met at an alternative setting or specialist provision. In those circumstances we have a role to support parents in identifying and accessing what is best for their child.

What should I do if I think that my child may have special educational needs?

- If you are concerned that your child may have unidentified special educational needs that are impacting on their progress, then your first point of contact should be the child's class teacher.
- If we feel that your child has SEND, then we will use a process of assess-plan-do-review to determine if they are not making the same progress as other children. From this, we may involve outside professionals for advice. We will keep you informed throughout the process.
- If your child has needs have already been identified, then information and assessments will transfer from the previous setting; a transition meeting will be arranged for some children, which will include parents.
- We will ask you if your child has any additional needs prior to your child starting school. Some children may have a home visit too.
- Access needs are established prior to starting at the academy.

How does the school know if my child needs extra help?

- If a child needs something more than is available through normal classroom practice, then they can be described as having special needs. This covers a wide range of needs from a child struggling to make good progress in reading or maths to social, speech or physical difficulties.
- If your child is new to school and they have needs which have already been identified, then information and assessments will come from the previous setting. A transition meeting will be arranged for some children which will include you.
- If your child is not making the same progress as other children and we feel that your child has SEND, then we will assess and plan what action needs to be taken. Assessment may include classroom observations, formal assessments, meetings with your child's class teacher and consultations with you and your child. From this, we may involve outside professionals for advice. We will keep you informed at each stage.

- SENCOs and Inclusions Leaders are qualified or working towards the completion of the National SENCO award and regularly complete training in order to develop their knowledge and practice. We collaborate within the Federation and with other Bristol SENCOs to share and form best practice. As part of the ongoing professional development process that happens within school, each member of the Learning Support team is encouraged to identify training needs early on in the school year and then plans put in place to achieve that during the year. This may include visiting other schools, attending local training, inviting in specialists from charities or being a part of whole-school training.
- Many staff undertake further training to develop their skills across a variety of aspects of school life.
- A number of the specialist services which support children with special needs within school also provide our staff with training either in school or on courses.
- In our academy, we have Learning Support Assistants and Staff with specialist knowledge in supporting children with ADHD, Attachment Disorder, Autism, Dyslexia, hearing impairments, physical needs. We also have a licensed Thrive Practitioner. If your child has specific needs where teaching staff need extra training, this will take place and specialists will be involved where necessary.

How will my child be included in activities outside the classroom, including school trips?

- We assess the risks for individual children and operate an inclusive policy to ensure access for all children.
- We have regular educational visits as well as people coming into school to support topic areas. There is one residential trip in year 6. All children, including those with SEND are given the opportunity to come.
- We provide any support that is required for full inclusion as we choose visits that are accessible to all.
- Parents and carers are invited to join and support the school and their child on trips and visits.

- Children starting school for the first time will have a 'meet the teacher' session, a picnic in the summer term before the September start, and a home visit. Home visits may also be arranged for children starting with SEND – the SENCo will liaise with you on this.
- For children moving on to Secondary school, there will be opportunities for them to visit their new school. The SENCo will liaise with the new setting. If the child has SEND, then additional meetings will be arranged in advance. SENCOs from the secondary schools will be invited to the appropriate Annual Review to prepare the student for the transition.
- We recognise that there are children who find yearly transition tricky and these are provided with extra support as appropriate to their needs. Parents will be fully involved and we value your input at any point in this process.
- Children transferring from class to class, teachers will start to teach their new class, at the end of the academic year. We want a smooth transition and teachers ensure they transfer all information and notes to the next teacher. We may even do a transition plan or profile, involving parents

How are the academy's resources allocated and matched to children's young people's SEN?

- Schools receive funding for all children including those with Special Educational Needs and Disabilities and these needs are met from this, including equipment. The Local Authority may contribute more funding if the cost of meeting an individual child's needs is more than £10 000 a year.
- High Quality First Teaching is the first step in responding to pupils who have or may have SEN.
- There is an ongoing cycle of assess-plan-do-review. From this the teacher will use interventions to support the classroom teaching and this will be reviewed termly.
- If progress is still not as expected, despite a suitable period of appropriate and effective support and interventions, then specialists will be involved. The impact of this advice will be monitored according to the advice given.
- If progress is still not being made, despite 'relevant and purposeful action', then we will consider requesting an Education, Health and Care assessment which will be reviewed annually. This process will take a minimum of 20 weeks to implement. Throughout this process, parents will be involved. Meetings with the class teacher will be held and the SENCo will be involved as appropriate.
- If your child qualifies for an Education Health Care plan (EHCP), the assessment of your child's needs identifies something that is significantly different from what is usually available, there may be additional funding allocated. You will be told if this means you are eligible for a personal budget and this may be used to fund the agreed fund.

How are parents involved in the academy? How can I be involved? How will you build on your equal partnerships with parent carers?

- Frome Vale is a child and family centred school, so you can be involved in the decision making about your child's support – you should arrange to talk to your child's teacher to discuss any concerns. We will discuss with you whether your child's understanding and behaviour are the same at school and at home and will take this into account when determining how to help your child make progress. We have reading logs and encourage you to write in this if you need to make an appointment for a chat. In some cases, we make an arrangement with parents to have a home – school link book to support your child’s learning.

- We hold review meetings for children with SEND and in some cases, where appropriate, hold a formal annual review where you are expected to attend and give your views. Teachers and parents are encouraged to hold as many informal meetings as are necessary to help progress your child’s learning.
- We actively encourage parents to volunteer in the school. We welcome ideas from parents and look to implement any activities that will support and help the children.
- We set homework weekly to repeat and practice activities that are new and present an achievable challenge for the individual pupil.
- Support is also available if you wish to understand more about how to help your child at home
